Foreword

Each of us, whether we realize it or not, are in the midst of a threefold search for Spiritual depth, intellectual growth and personal development. The imprints of this search are recorded minutely in the teeming details of daily life. Some of these records are fleeting —leaving little mark save perhaps a pleasant memory. Others become indelible marks upon a page of life, and upon you.

We of the Marionette wish to record, at least a sampling of the imprints of this year's search. Some perhaps will make you laugh; others cause you to think. We hope, however, that all will become pleasant reminders of Marion College, 1968. This isn't just any story, it's YOUR story.

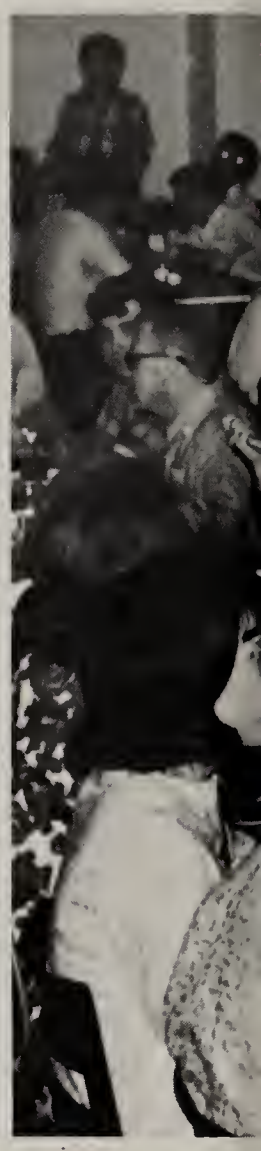
MARION COLLEGE

FOUR 6 PAKS 16 OZ

The campus is quiet, peaceful, serene; but suddenly a car drives up in front of Teter, Williams, or Shatford. In a moment, the once placid campus is turned to a bevy of activity as the eager returnee (or not-so-eager-new student) begins to unload. Out from the depths of the front seat, back seat, under the seat and trunk, spills a barage of trunks, boxes, laundry baskets, and bags.



Soon there are lines everywhere—in Room 202 to sign forms—in the business office to pay a bill—in the cafeteria for meals. Dean Luttrul is busy too—trying to work out a half-a dozen schedules at once.

Whether it's new faces—meeting the faculty—or new flavors—Saga Food—the beginning days of the school year are a kaleidoscope of "first impressions." Soon enough, however, the bewildered student finds that dorm life isn't so bad after all, and his chapel seat (98th row, second chair) at least affords a chance to sleep.

You Never Really Lose on Rush Day!

Skits, slogans, songs, speeches, soft drinks for all. A presidential Campaign? No, Rush Day at Marion College—the annual battle of the societies. Will those long hours in drumming up a cute Rush-day program pay off? Who will out rush the other. Soon the campus air is tense with excitement. The big night arrives and—well somebody had to win. But at any rate, each society has gained a new group of great kids.

Mini-Expo—
Homecoming

A touch of the old, a bit of the new—Homecoming provided both, those nostalgic memories for returning alumnae and the freshness of today for students.

The queen and her court were as lovely as ever with Brenda Waits representing all the queens that have reigned through the years.

1967

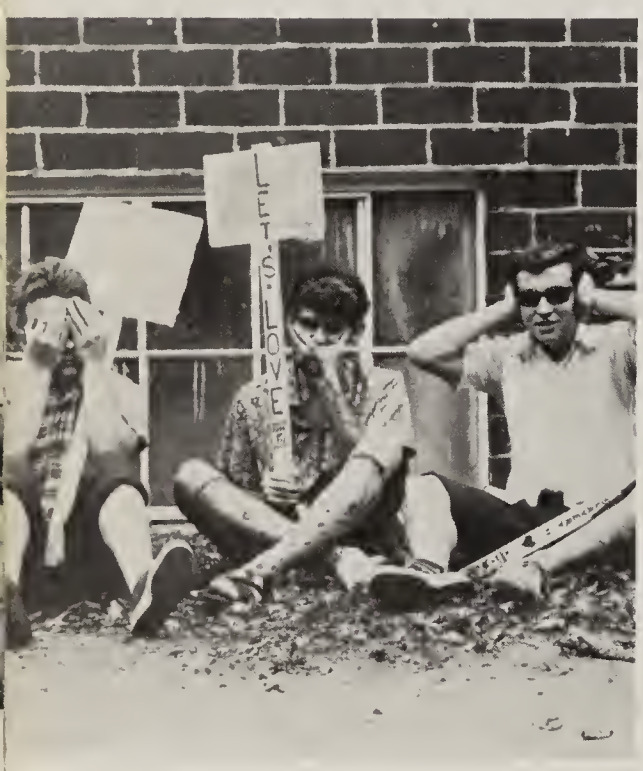
For excitement, a football game—or if you preferred, a "bug" race. (Who cared if today's cars aren't what they used to be?) Sightseers could ooo or ah at the clever Pavilions set up all over campus.

Although few visitors realized the long hours of team work by Millie and M.C. students that Mini-expo represented, no one could minimize the success of Homecoming, 1967.

Freshmen Initiation Fun but . . .

Freshman initiation—a "never to be forgotten" event for the 21 who "participated" more fully than others. But then, how could these helpless greenies know that the sophomores were planning "freshman elimination."

Aside from the broken and sprained limbs, however, there was some tamer excitement. While the girls tried vainly to look "as usual" with 40 pin curls displayed prominently in their hair, some of the fellows enjoyed a little "proverbial fun!"



All is not play at Marion College, and the day of reckoning soon comes for man, woman (and freshman).

The silence of the library is once again vibrant with the sounds of learning—it's study time once more.

The President's Message

The processes of spiritual deepening, intellectual growth, and personal development are intertwined with each other and with the mystery of life itself. Nevertheless, observation teaches us some things.

One observation is that force for growth to be effective must be applied from the inside. External pressures can depress and stunt the growth process. Until the internal pressures are greater than the external forces there is no growth. However, too much internal pressure released suddenly can be explosive and damaging. But the proper balance of forces with a slightly greater internal than external pressure is the condition prerequisite for growth.

This means then that there must be personal desire that motivates action that in turn exercises strength and maturity. Outside influences can only affect personal development while it remains for the inner resources of the personality to effect real development.

Depth of spirituality affects personal development. Intellectual growth affects personal development. Likewise, personal maturity in turn affects depth of spirituality and intellectual growth. In short there is an unity to the personality.

Each year the faculty and students on our campus seek to know more fully the richness of the Spirit filled life and the stimulation of ideas. These are experiences that make each of us to grow in the very essence of being. A life fuller and richer because we know each other and each knowing Christ.

Student Council 1968

The 1967-68 Marion College Student Council under the able leadership of President Mike Phaup has been quite active. The beginning of the school year found the Council working diligently to make preparations for the annual Homecoming. With the 1967 Homecoming a shadow of the past, the Council had to get down to brass tacks with traditional projects and new projects that would make this Council stand as an individual.

This year's agenda included Chapel exchange programs; cooperation with the faculty in initiating the Judiciary Committee, writing a new constitution, etiquette convocations, voting for Who's Who candidates, and formulating an honor code to mention only a few items.

The Council's affiliation with the Council of Christian Colleges proved quite profitable in the exchange of ideas, problems, and solutions. The CCC is comprised of seven Christian colleges with like purposes. A retreat was held last fall at Epworth Forest, North Webster, Indiana, which proved to be quite an inspiration for the seven representatives from our alma mater.

Series With Three Straight Wins

Eurekan Dick Bury offers his hand to a would be tackler.

The Eurekan Torchbearers combined an excellent turnout and organization into a series Victory. Both head captains, Eurekan Joe Pietrucha and Amphic Terry Talbott did a good job of "whipping their boys into shape."

The initial game belonged to the Eurekans as they completely overpowered the Amphics 18—0. The second game was however, an entirely different story as the Amphics led in every category except scoring. The Eurekans won 12—6. This, the Homecoming game was, in the words of one referee "The best game I've ever seen anywhere."

By the third game the Eurekans were again rolling over the ailing Amphic squad and were again victorious by an 18—0 court. All in all, it was the best year MC football has seen.

Sophomores and Juniors Share Title

The juniors and the sophomores established themselves early in the season as powerhouses and together dominated the men's class basketball series. The sophomores led the pack with a 4—0 record until the fifth game when the juniors defeated them, thus evening the records at 4—1. Both finished the season with wins.

Jerry Carter, junior, led all scorers with a 22 point average. Junior, Paul Nicholson; senior, John Huckeby; sophomores, Larry Tester and Joe Hunt; and freshman, George Collins led their teams.

Linda Kenworthy, Swish!

Who says that girl's basketball ean't be exeiting? Certainly not those who witnessed the struggle for the elass championship.

The sophomores were expected to give the juniors a good fight for the title, but surprise, surprise! The freshmen, behind the hot shooting of Debbie Poe, ended the regular season with a 4—1 record, identical to the sophomores. Unlike the men's league they had a playoff, with the sophomores elaiming the title by a 16—13 score. Debbie Westafer scored 13 for the sophomores.

Debbie Poe finished the season with a 14 point average and a high game total of 27. Debbie Westafer led the victorious sophomores with an eight point average, with strong support from her teammates.

An exciting girl's series with the hard-fought men's made elass basketball interesting to say the least.

Intercollegiate Sports

Since an inter-collegiate sports program has been approved for the coming school year the Athletic Committee decided to introduce an intermediate step between the outdated Amphic-Eurekan series and the long-awaited interscholastic arrangement.

Larry Tester, Bruin guard, scores on the business end of a fast break.

Stretching for another basket, Dave Powell tosses the ball again.

Teams Play Hard

A pool was made including all players wishing to participate in the year's series. The coaches, chosen faculty members, then divided the athletes into three equal teams and chose their team on a pick-from-a-hat basis.

This arrangement not only allows more equal participation, but also enables athletes to play against one another.

This basketball season is the first step to success through intercollegiate athletics.

MC Becomes Intercollegiate

"College is not just an academic experience but the opportunity to find oneself through spiritual growth, social life, and physical development. A Christian college that is involved in intercollegiate sports influences all three of these aspects. Through sports one learns teamwork, sportsmanship, discipline, respect for others, and through sports one can prove that being a Christian is not being a sissy."

Seniors Look Forward—Remembering

To the seniors of 1968 a future date has become a present one. They have laid their plans on a solid foundation of knowledge and expericnce of the past. The seniors were the captains of teams, the presidents of clubs and members of organizations. They occasionally found time to write a letter or maybe evcn visit their homes during vacations. They remembered the homecoming parade, the senior float that won first prize, the girls' basketball team, the Christmas Banquet, the Junior-Senior Banquet, the underclassmen, graduation. The end seemed to reflect the beginning: speeches, meetings, good wishes, and the feeling of insecurity. They were the same, yet different—a bit more concrete, a little harder to change. A completed unit of human experience that cannot be changed, a unit that will influence, a unit that will remain in the minds of those who were a part of it.

The seniors won first place on their float, an Italian gondola. The gondolier, Wally Ratliff, and the passengers, Kathy Welo, and Odel Benhardus

Juniors

Juniors are nearing their ultimate goals. Growth has been a slow, steady process but progress can be measured in terms of accomplishments. Progress was visible this year under the leadership of President Jim Campbell, Larry Mealy, Vice President; Linda Christie, Secretary; Brenda Waits, Treasurer; Jerry Carter, Student Council Representative; and Richard Phillippi, Chaplain. The ability of the Juniors was proven in an effort which produced the first winning pavilion during Homecoming. Dreams dissolved into reality as the Class of '69 entertained the graduating class in the annual Junior-Senior Banquet Climaxing a year of activities.

Sophomores

More academic freedom caused Sophomores to realize and accept greater responsibility. They were ably led by a strong force of officers. President Jim Mohler was assisted by Vice President Steve Williams, Secretary Zana Barker, Treasurer Judy Macy and Sheryl Sharp, Social Chairman. Others were Frank Levi, Mike Moredock, Debbie Westafer, and Fred Fox.

The Sophomore individuality, molded in a unified effort, made Freshmen initiation a memorable event.

Freshmen Begin to Feel Excitement

When they entered MC, the freshman found themselves believing there must be something prophetic about the class of '71. Probably not. They were told that they were the smartest class to enter this school. But the reality of eight o'clock classes, papers to write, and books to read took over after the gay façade of orientation, receptions, and rush. They were no different from any other class. They sang the alma mater, joined the same two societies and selected a class advisor. The freshmen listened in classes and took notes as fast as they could, took exams, aced some, failed some, and checked the mailbox everyday for letters. The rush of finals, late nights, and before they knew it, the first year passed into history. The freshmen began to find their place.

They came, they saw, they conformed.

For the annual homecoming parade the freshman made a float with the theme of "Born Free."

Mary Pat Palumbo

Mary Pat was a Junior here at MC—a soft-spoken, hard-working girl, from Kokomo. Her absence is felt by each of us who knew her. She was an Elementary Education major, and spent her spare time working for the Campus Mental Health Unit. Her death came as a shock to each of us and it seems a tragedy and a waste; yet she is with the very One now Who made her, and loved her enough to give His very own life for her. Her one supreme desire was to live for the Lord in all that she did—"Few there are who offer the gold of their life, in order that He might put it through the crucible of suffering and burn out the alloy of sin and imperfection."

Editor's Epilogue

The year has come to a close. The Marionette Office has locked its doors; all is dark and quiet within. In memory, we recall the joys and thrills, not to mention the headaches and frustrations in creating a pictorial view of campus life.

My greatest thanks go to those who have worked unceasingly and tirelessly to help make the work a little easier. Special mention should go to photographer Deanne Dayton who worked whenever he was needed and stayed up late hours in order to meet deadlines. The same thanks goes to Mike Troyer who helped in carrying the load of this year's creation. Last but not least, certainly, thanks go to Jane Breedlove for financial guidance. She worked hard to get the ads necessary to balance our budget.

This book is the best effort of a group. Certainly, we made mistakes; but we hope these can be overlooked and that the majority may appreciate and enjoy our work. The old adage still applies: "Hindsight is better than foresight." This book represents many months of hard work and careful planning. We hope you will look at it, enjoy it, and accept it, now, and for many years to come.

We present to you the 1968 Marionette.
